Spring 2007 Frank Lloyd Wright’s Hollyhock House Docent Training Program

Los Angeles—The City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs will be holding its bi-annual docent training program for Frank Lloyd Wright’s Hollyhock House in Barnsdall Park. With training provided by curators, architectural historians, restoration architects, and the Director of Education for Hollyhock House, volunteers will gain an in-depth knowledge of Hollyhock House and its architecture, the history of its original owner, Aline Barnsdall, as well as touring and public speaking techniques. Trained docents will then provide guided tours to some of the 12,000 annual visitors to this historic site.

The Spring 2007 Docent Training Program will be held on five consecutive Saturday mornings beginning March 3, 2007. The dates of the training sessions are March 3, March 10, March 17, March 24, and March 31, 2007 and will take place from 10 am to 1 pm at Hollyhock House and the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery, both located in Barnsdall Park, 4800 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles, 90027.

Trained docents will need to be available a minimum of once a month, four hours a day, to give public tours. Tours are offered to the public Wednesday through Sunday, 12:30 to 4:30 pm. A 12-month commitment is required.

Applications are currently being accepted. The deadline for the Spring 2007 Docent Training Program is Friday, February 23, 2007. Interviews are required and there will be a $40 materials fee due by the first class, March 3rd.

Barnsdall Park is a facility of the City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs. For further information or to receive an application, contact Sara L. Cannon or Gabriel Cifarelli at 323.644.6269 or met_gcifarelli@sbcglobal.net.
