DEPARTMENT OF CULTURAL AFFAIRS
RECEIVES NEA BIG READ GRANT

The City of Los Angeles to Read and Celebrate

The Round House

by
Louise Erdrich

LOS ANGELES, CA – The City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs received an award of $15,000 to host the NEA Big Read again this year. A national initiative of the National Endowment for the Arts in partnership with Arts Midwest, the NEA Big Read broadens our understanding of our world, our communities, and ourselves through the joy of sharing a good book. The Department of Cultural Affairs is one of 84 organizations to receive an NEA Big Read grant and will host community reading programs between September 2020 and June 2021. Louise Erdrich’s The Round House is this year’s selection, and related activities will take place throughout the year.

“The Department of Cultural Affairs, along with our Big Read partners will continue to provide critical distance learning and dynamic programming to the public through online festivals, film screenings, virtual galleries, to ensure all readers have access to the literary arts,” says Danielle Brazell, General Manager of the Department of Cultural Affairs. “Louise Erdrich’s novel presents an opportunity for Angelenos to connect and dialogue about its themes of identity, and justice, and coming of age during this time of social change.”

“We have become even more aware this year of the important ways the arts help us connect with others, and how they bring meaning, joy, and comfort to our lives,” said Mary Anne Carter, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts. “Bringing the NEA Big Read to the City of Los Angeles, Department of Cultural Affairs will provide opportunities for deep discussion and ways to help us better understand one another.”

“We are honored to continue our partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts on this incredible program,” said Torrie Allen, president & CEO of Arts Midwest. “For more than 14 years, this national effort has invested in communities as they gather to discuss the stories and ideas that connect us to
