Dear Friends,

On behalf of the City of Los Angeles, it is my pleasure to join all Angelenos in celebrating Latino Heritage Month. Our Latinx community has been an essential thread in the rich cultural tapestry of our city, and has made L.A. a more vibrant place to live.

Los Angeles is home to a wealth of Latinx heritage and history. Whether in the arts or academia, in our businesses or in our neighborhoods, Latinxs have brought invaluable contributions to every corner of our city.

I hope you will use this calendar and cultural guide, created by our Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA), to learn about the many online activities to celebrate this month. I also encourage you to enjoy the remarkable artwork we are showcasing from established and emerging Latinx artists.

I send my best wishes for a memorable celebration and continued success.

Sincerely,

ERIC GARCETTI

Dear Friends,

On behalf of the Los Angeles City Council, it is my privilege to invite you to celebrate Latino Heritage Month in our great City! The very foundation of the City of Los Angeles, which earlier existed with rich indigenous history, was established by 44 pobladores from Mexico in 1781.

Los Angeles’s heritage has been full of Latino culture, art, and influence ever since.

This month, we honor the achievements of our City’s Latino community and acknowledge the meaningful contributions Latinos have made to L.A. With this publication, our Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA) highlights the work of our incredible Latino artists who, despite experiencing the devastating effects COVID-19 had on the arts community, found ways – virtual and otherwise – to keep our traditions alive and thriving in our communities, as well as offer new ones for us to consider.

To mark this important month, DCA is also providing arts and cultural online activities for your enjoyment. I encourage you to refer to this calendar to find the numerous festivals, musical events, theatrical performances, films, poetry readings, and cultural events that are just a click away.

Together we will celebrate Latino Heritage Month and accomplishments by all our Latinos in the City of Angels.

Sincerely,

NURY MARTINEZ

Dear Friends,

The Department of Cultural Affairs is pleased to present this calendar of online events celebrating the Latino community thriving in our unique City. In this publication, we honor the extraordinary range of Latino experiences and cultural traditions transforming our society into an exciting, creative metropolis.

2020 is a year full of ruptures in normalcy, community resiliency, and creative reinvention. It is a moment in time where history will show the collective impact of our ability to respond to crisis through an unwavering dedication to fostering the wellbeing of our communities for the greater public good. We have seen communities step up to take care of our most vulnerable while demonstrating how to protect, serve, and heal from a mystery virus that shows no mercy on those it infects. We know firsthand, because we have lived it, and many have survived it, to tell the story.

I want to express my appreciation for the work of the members of our Latino Heritage Month Committee, the Mayor’s Office, the Controller’s Office, the Office of the City Attorney, and our City Council Offices for their assistance in recruiting and recognizing the many nonprofit organizations, community groups, arts organizations, artists, and activists whose efforts helped us create this impressive publication full of fun, educational, and exciting events that are just a click away. We are also pleased to showcase a selection of contemporary art produced by our Los Angeles Latino artists in this publication. Their vision pays homage to steps taken in the past towards progress, and looks ahead towards a future assuring equality for all.

With this publication, I hope you will enjoy fantastic art and celebrate a City’s great Latino heritage…all contributing to what makes Los Angeles thrive creatively and culturally through this crisis and beyond.

Sincerely,

DANIELLE BRAZELL

Los Angeles’s diverse Latino legacy started over 15,000 years ago in the prehistoric epoch. Some of the oldest human remains in North America were excavated near Los Angeles and dated to approximately 13,000 B.C. The Chumash were the first Indigenous settlers to arrive around 8,000 B.C. establishing communities along the southern coastal regions of California and the Channel Islands. The Tongva moved into coastal Southern California near 200 A.D. and lived in the area that eventually became Los Angeles when the first Spanish contact was made in the 1500s.

Priests followed explorers to establish new communities throughout the 1700s. During this period, El Pueblo de la Reina de Los Ángeles Sobre el Río de la Porciúncula was officially established by the Spanish crown. As Los Angeles’s government changed from its original tribal settlers to Spain, Mexico, and then the United States over the course of its rich Indigenous and Hispanic history, our city’s residents blended into a singularly unique cultural mix of Latinos — of Indigenous, Spanish, Mexican, Latin American, Middle Eastern, Caribbean, European, African, Pacific Islander, and Asian descent — among many other backgrounds.
The following is a partial selection of historic monuments in Los Angeles:

ADOBE DE PALOMARES

Mission Hills

El Pueblo de Los Angeles
Los Angeles
213.485.6855

THE BRIDGE TO NOWHERE
East fork of San Gabriel River
Highway 39

ARPILLERAS
THE ART OF PROTEST
The lives of a group of Chilean-born women living in Southern California were drastically changed by the September 11, 1973 Chilean coup d’état. Augusto Pinochet’s dictatorship (1973 to 1990) left over 3,000 dead or missing, tortured tens of thousands of prisoners, and drove an estimated 200,000 to 1 million Chileans into exile.

These women founded a group and deepened their already interwoven friendships during the Covid-19 pandemic affecting the world. Some of them came to exile in the United States in the mid-1970s, escaping the dictatorship; others arrived in the 1960s as immigrants. These women, through their unwavering friendship and support of just causes, are overcoming current hardships, just as they did in the past.

They keep their dreams alive while maintaining their cultural ties to Chile, and were deeply involved in Arte, Mujer y Memoria, an exhibition of Chilean arpilleras (embroidery on burlap) at the Museum of Latin American Art (MoLAA) in Long Beach, California from November 24, 2019 through September 6, 2020. They each created an arpilleria telling a personal story of their life in the United States, detailing their contributions to the country they now call home.

During Pinochet’s dictatorship in Chile, arpilleras were created with humble materials and served to document and denounce oppression in a country where all normal channels of free expression were closed. The artworks were smuggled out of the country to inform the world about the human rights abuses in Chile.

It is impossible for the women to ignore their history in Chile and in the United States. During the pandemic they have not stopped dreaming and being active. They march in support of Black Lives Matter and in Chile they support homeless people with funds for food and water. These are among their latest contributions that reflect their unwavering belief in human dignity at home and abroad.

I WISH

Written by Carlos Castrejón

I wish to be a space and to be able to internalize in me the evicted fragile dreams, those who were dreamed by others seeking a dream of hope, a dream of land.

Place in my space the dreams that were rejected due to their differences, uneducated and ignorant, the dreams that were put aside for not having the right tone and accordance to the privileged.

A sigh of a thousand voices, those seeking equality; and they seek it incessantly.

I close my eyes to put myself next to those who still dream of life, of the survival of the great land.

I open my heart to let in the voices, the complaints and the tears of their souls.

I close the door of the threat, to those who want to defeat the hard work of the humble.

I open to the feeling and wish to help to dream once again those who are tired of waiting.

Dreams are those that dress my nakedness; living in a dream or in all is finally living.
WHEN I DIE AT THE RIPE AGE OF A HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE

Written by Rubén Esparza

Adagios to cumbia, mariachi to disco to punk, and all that stuff from the eighties, is the music they’ll play as they send me away

No cryin’, no sad good-byes, only singing and dancing and remembering all the laughter and All the good times

In the box where I lay, close to my chest are pictures of all the people I hold dear, abuela Lola, mi querida madre, mis hermanos, y hermanas, and that one picture of the love of my life, Jeff

Along with the list of all my boys I lost to AIDS, included in that list the name of my first love, Russ, who was taken at a very very young age

Bury me deep in the ground, anywhere in my beautiful Califas, wrapped in the softest of zarapes,

Where the seed planted in my chest will grow into an Aliso tree

These are my wishes when I die
A MI MADRE, EL ALFA Y EL OMEGA DE NUESTRA VIDA.

Written by Rosa E B Vela

Yo nací con ella,
y ella con su madre...
soy tan vieja o tan joven como lo es ella, tengo su misma edad la de su madre, y la de la madre de su madre...

Soy fragmento y eternidad, soy prolongación de vida soy extensión de generaciones.

A través de ella crucé las fronteras de la vida, y algún día cruzaré también las fronteras de la muerte, para ir tras ella.
Fue a través de mis hijos que la prolongué, y mientras haya consecución de vida continuará viva en cada uno de los nietos, los bisnietos y así, por generaciones y generaciones.

Ella fue la mujer más dulce y tierna que ha existido sobre la faz de la tierra.
La amo, la amé,
y la seguiré amando a través del tiempo, hasta el último aliento de mi vida...

Soy vida,
soy madre,
soy letra, ¡soy mujer, igual que tú, Madre!

Dedicado a la mujer que me dió la vida.
SUEÑO

Written by Obersand Franco

¿De dónde soy?, no lo sé.
Sueño profundo ofusca mi recuerdo.
Por patria tengo la extensión del mundo,
cual ave tiene la extensión del cielo.

¿Mi destino cuál es?, dirás acaso.
Bendecir al que se arrastra por el lodo.
Quisiera ver en fraternal abrazo a la humanidad unida y eso todo.

Al tirano bendigo.
Desdeño a la guerra que encierra en su encono a las naciones.

La misión del mortal sobre la tierra es hacerla fértil, no construir cañones.

“¡Marcha!” – le dicen al soldado.
“Toma presto el fusil y ve a luchar”.
Y qué importa que deje el desgraciado, a su amada familia, su tranquilo hogar.

Le inculcan en valor con tal raigambre.
Que luchan con bravura y yo lo sé.
Las fieras matan por que tienen hambre.
El hombre mata sin saber por qué.

Yo, quisiera donde un cuartel tenga su asiento Un colegio que forme corazones.
Quisiera oír la voz del pensamiento.
En lugar del rugir de los cañones.

Ése, ése es mi sueño y en mi sueño fundó mi esperanza, mi profundo anhelo.
Por patria tengo la extensión del mundo,
Cual ave tiene la extensión del cielo.
COLOR OF CONCRETE

Written by Zeus Saul Villegas

In the new year thangs look swell showing confidence as I bail intent is sold to the highest bidder going once, going twice, the metaphor is nice mind is mine I entertain the brain thinking up ideas on how to gain going against the grain, the pain it causes sometimes burns, I earn my losses learn with bosses break bread with all it takes strength for those holding up walls ornaments to the cause, I don’t mind I couldn’t be in front without those behind motivate those closest in the crew positive mental attitude can seem rude I know where I am going, peep and it’s showing Bringing color to a concrete world growing Andres Montoya, Lace Vase, Spray paint, acrylic, acrylic ink on paper, 12” x 9”, 2020
I wonder,
in the shattered brilliance of the day the deafening sound of distant strikes projectile explosions, white noise echo
hurricane and earthquakes,

On this day tremble, quiver cry for myself so I will love and dream with good intention still, with abundantly available words of understanding, friend deep prayers in the dirt, yes remade in rubble poems

On this day I clench my fists set my shoulders, unstoppable.
Nothing left, nothing to lose.
Tie a knot of incantations with wool thread pulled through the dark ocean, script the terse reply instantly to anyone who might understand

On this day
from islands drowning in seas of lies in plastic, cars and grids El derecho de vivir en paz lost between the days and talk

So we might learn to speak the spell that makes a bridge and justice serves.
On this day I call it up for justice and la gente
Call it up
like a bridge, extra hands, spare change bring it on in shattering power

Call it up
land and sky
red beans and rice elotes, tortillas fresh water for the children
On this day
we etch our actions on the gates of tomorrow.
I wonder.
NEVER DOUBT

Written by Franco Letelier

Never doubt
new forms of love and resistance will rise.
Trees, wind, and instinct Clouds, waves, tides still be the wise man guide In the big room we build together some things fail, we still get lost.
Yes, even then,
some will long for more.
When we are down remember to reach out for the prisoner,
the sick, the poor.
Seek out the homeless,
call up the dead.
They, know the wall,
the brand, the cage,
the order,
they lost it all.
Just like you,
but not you, yet.
Your rebel waits to hear you yelling sunshine on the street, in virtual lines of text everywhere.

Somewhere on a list waiting for a glimpse of you mountains, stars, and other people shine in unimagined order.
We count more than money.
Nothing can replace the wildness we must find to be closer to free.
We must keep collecting,
naming stars and pollen,
building clever vessels, aged lumber, forged metals, and bark carving prayer beads from broken cell phones.
When we return, let this blue-black sky, a shield spiral of crows, shelter us like smoke, as we play hide and seek and heal the world.
You emerge, Empress of Altars from those hills of Tepeyac with your beautiful attire full of angels and stars.

Such was the sweetness in your word...silent words filled with celestial consolation and to many countries: fervent hope.

I love my bronze Virgin for the many favors received, your mantel covers grievances, solitude, and injustices known to all.

Especially for immigrants, martyred and killed, looking for a better life...and lost in it... in the fields or in the howling cities, far from home and without comfort.

Only you calm hurricanes and storms and tame the beasts swollen in fury...allow us, Empress to rest our foreheads on your bosom and renew our spirits with miracles.

Oh, Empress of the Americas, with your prodigies you have united us as declared by our Pope Francisco in the liturgy of your last celebration, December 12th, in the Vatican.
La verdad sabía que no era mentira, el invierno ya corría sin saber lo que ocurría todo dependía del cristal con que se mira El saber no sabía si preguntar a la experiencia o acudir a la ciencia, pues mucha información había La culpa acechaba a los murciélagos, dejándolos bien marcados por la vendimia en los mercados, ya no había para ellos grandes halagos Muchos querían ganar fama, con videos chistosos hacerse los graciosos, mientras muchos caían en cama La ciudad en fantasma convertida, daba la bienvenida a la fauna que, sin preocupación alguna, ya no estaba escondida La creencia religiosa más presente estaba y al cielo todo mundo rogaba que la cercanía no fuera contagiosa Mascarillas cubren la sonrisa, no los ojos aterrados que miran y miran desconsolados, al mundo que ya no iba a toda prisa La desnudez vistió a los políticos que sin saber qué hacer, dormían hasta el amanecer para que no los tildaran de cínicos

La madra tierra salió de sus rincones, le acompañó la madre naturaleza y flora y fauna con su riqueza, celebraron que la tierra limpió sus pulmones La ausencia visitó a los pupitres, los saberes extrañando estaban a sus estudiantes que gestaban, quedando vacíos sus vientres El miedo, la ansiedad, la psicosis y lo siniestro, se apoderaron de la humanidad azotándola sin ninguna piedad y sin alguna clase de encuentro De la humanidad conocemos su pobreza, más ahora que se paró el trabajo y la industria se vino abajo, conoceremos su verdadera naturaleza La ciencia dialogaba con la suerte, buscaba la fórmula perfecta y obtener la que desinfecta para ahuyentar a la temida muerte No se dio gusto el fracaso, ni dio plazo, porque el todo era nada, la esperanza callada y vacunada, volvió a unir corazones en un abrazo “La economía se recupera, la vida no” Good times!
I’m on my way during this time of uncertainty
We see all around us that all of us are looking for some kind of security We look to our families, our friends, our colleagues
But then something deep within your spirit stirs Deep within you, some thing just is not fulfilled It’s something that hungers the essence of your true need It’s not the taco or the whole enchilada It goes even deeper...and deeper...and deeper..

It goes to your physicality, to core of your soul
The need to self-express taunts you through this outer body connection between you and the vast world of creation
The wide-eyed opening to endless possibilities of birthing new inventions, new ideas, new rhythms, new fads, new creative endeavors
No matter what, why, or who plunders their way through the feast or famine
We manage to pursue the dream of creation Ladies and gentlemen,
I present to you...
The Artist
The one who brings tears to your eyes, laughter to your voice wearing the mask of comedy and tragedy

Sharing their truth by taking a leap of faith, stepping off their home shores, their isles of comfort to spread the message through their works, their art
made of the implications of the world before them Mirroring the societies we interact with, the long and shortcomings with mindful reflections of the past into passion works of art for the future.
Though the artist may seem to others as sometimes too out the box Continuing our funny clothes, our jokes, our funny hairdos (some in ‘locs).
We do good well
but we can do better!
Every Artist gifted to share with others, freely given to, utilizes the gift, adds spice to the bland soup, planting gardens where none saw, enlighten the youth, introducing them to a world of possible outcomes, helping in fruition of the vision, and the power to aid the effort for peace, for tomorrow’s plans
We carry a deep, hard, (sometimes ruthless) responsibility to carry forward for change Change is what we are about good, bad, or indifferent, we have a voice
We make a voice.
RAY’S BARRIO HAZARD

Written by Vibiana Aparicio Chamberlin

Dedicated to the Veteranos of Hazard and Ramona Gardens—Ray Andrade, John Sermeno, Tony and Margaret Salazar, Moctesuma Esparza, Bert Corona, Tommy Varela, and Alicia Escalante. Era 1960s.

When el barrio más chingón got knocked up When Little Hazard
spit you forth
Revolucionario.
You were born.

Padres, abuelos
trashings and rosary beads Jackson school days marijuana and tattoos Chuco friendships
Elysian Park dreaming Chota bullets clubs and mace
She was the chola who painfully gave.
She was the sweetheart who destiny called to court you
to enfold you.
The bed at the Roxie
The womb of the barrio
The climax of the boxing ring
The explosion of hand grenades All were the mistress who willingly gave.
She was the woman
who destiny called to laboriously push you forth.
Revolucionario.
You were born.

I LOVE SATURDAYS Y DOMINGOS
Written by Alma Flor Ada, Illustrator Elivia Savadier
Publisher: Atheneum Books for Young Readers

Saturdays and Sundays are very special days for the child in this story. On Saturdays she visits Grandma and Grandpa, who come from a European-American background, and on Sundays – los domingos – she visits Abuelito y Abuelita, who are Mexican-American. While the two sets of grandparents are different in many ways, they also have a great deal in common – in particular, their love for their granddaughter. While we follow our narrator to the circus and the pier, share stories from her grandparents’ past, and celebrate her birthday, the depth and joy of both cultures are conveyed in Spanish and English. This affirmation of both heritages will speak to all children who want to know more about their own families and their ethnic backgrounds.

A NEW SUN
Written by Max Benavidez & Katherine Del Monte, Illustrator Jose Ramirez
Publisher: Latino Literacy Press

This beautifully illustrated book includes text in both English and Spanish and a vocabulary list in the back. The book’s story reassures its young readers that, in spite of cultural differences, there are still things people have in common no matter what their culture.
SIP, SLURP, SOUP, SOUP, CALDO, CALDO, CALDO

Written by Diane Gonzales Bertrand, Illustrator Alex Pardo DeLange
Publisher: Piñata Books

A rhythmic text with repetitive phrases relates how the children watch Mamá as she makes soup (recipe included). Although Mamá stands as an expert on the creation of a delicious soup/caldo that represents the ultimate in comfort food (it stops sniffles, cures stomach aches, tired feet, or backaches!), the whole family participates and appreciates. Papá takes the children to buy tortillas, and the whole event turns into a fiesta. The book is excellent for children in families that know the importance of bilingual skills and for those families that know the importance of togetherness.

As she wanders through the Mexican countryside seeking tree-healing advice, she sees the mysterious Night Man at the Mercado — and he is selling her beautiful limones! She summons the help of La Anciana, a wise old woman with gentle eyes, who finally provides a creative solution. This simple tale of human compassion will appeal to young children on many levels.

CUADROS DE FAMILIA / FAMILY PICTURES
Written and Illustrated by Carmen Lomas Garza
Publisher: Children’s Book Press

An inspired celebration of American cultural diversity in English and Spanish. Lomas Garza presents a charming series of paintings while relating remembrances of her childhood in Kingsville, Texas, near the Mexican border. The brilliantly colored images teem with life and exude the glow of nostalgia. Lomas Garza’s vignettes are similar in their primitive folk style to those of Grandma Moses. Whether it’s the family eating watermelon on the porch, or Grandfather taking a skinned rabbit into the kitchen for dinner, each moment is fully captured in all its freshness and immediacy. The vibrant, canvas-like illustrations, accentuated with papel picado – images on the text pages – evoke powerful feelings of Garza’s love for family and community despite the hardships she encountered while growing up.

HARVESTING HOPE: THE STORY OF CESAR CHAVEZ
Written by Kathleen Krull, Illustrator Yuyi Morales Publisher: Harcourt Children’s Books

When Cesar Chavez was ten years old, drought forced his family to leave its Arizona ranch and move to California. The family became migrant workers, poorly paid and badly treated. As an adult, Chavez organized a nonviolent revolt, culminating in a 300-mile protest march that produced the first farm workers’ contract.

MY DIARY FROM HERE TO THERE / MI DIARIO DE AQUI HASTA ALLA
Written by Amanda Irma Perez, Illustrator Maya Christina Gonzalez
Publisher: Children’s Book Press

In her first diary entry, Amada is anxious about her family’s move from Juarez, Mexico, to Los Angeles. Despite her father’s assurances, she worries that they will never return to Juarez, that she won’t be able to learn English, and that he will have problems finding work. Amada records their travels, their stay with relatives in Mexicali, the eventual journey to Los Angeles, and the joyful reunion with their father. Told consistently through the eyes and feelings of a child, the narrative successfully telescopes the family odyssey.

EL SOMBRERO DEL TÍO NACHO / UNCLE NACHO’S HAT

Written by Harriet Rohmer, Illustrator Mira Reisberg
Publisher: Children’s Book Press

These two bilingual folktales bring important glimpses of other cultures to American children. The Uncle Nacho story originated in Nicaragua; the other came to Nicaragua from Africa by way of Jamaica. In the first, Nacho is attached to his old hat, even though it is full of holes. When his niece Ambrosia gives him a new one, he’s pleased but skeptical. He reluctantly puts the ragged hat in the trash, but thanks to well-meaning relatives and friends, the hat keeps returning to Nacho. Finally he realizes it’s time to push himself to modify his style, in a clever lesson in acceptance of change. In the second story, Brother Anansi is “the spider,” a standard folk hero known for his devious nature. In this book, Anansi outsmarts a tiger who is twice his size. The tiger has won the lottery and Anansi is bound to end up a winner himself. Anansi ends up a cattle rancher in a charming victory of brainpower over brawn.

LA MUJER QUE BRILLABA AÚN MÁS QUE EL SOL / THE WOMAN WHO OUTSHONE THE SUN

Written by Alejandro Cruz Martinez, Rosalma Zubizarreta, Harriet Rohmer and David Shecter, Illustrator Fernando Olivera
Publisher: Children’s Book Press

Lucia Zenteno is a mythic character, a woman of great beauty who is perfectly in tune with nature. She is indeed larger than life, and though beloved by the creatures of the countryside, she becomes the target of human hatred and fear and is driven out of her village because she is different. It is only as nature mourns and the river leaves with her that the people realize that they need her. More beautiful than the sun, loved by the whole of nature, purveyor of quiet goodwill, Lucia Zenteno is a part of the storytelling tradition of Mexico’s Zapotec Indians. In this English-Spanish retelling, Lucia’s fate at the hands of unkind strangers is captured in artwork glowing with color and vitality. When the dazzling girl arrives in a village, it is no surprise that the river falls in love with her, rising “from its bed . . . to flow through her shining black hair.”

ESPERANZA RISING
Written by Pam Munoz Ryan Publisher: Blue Sky Press

Ryan uses the experiences of her Mexican grandmother as the basis for this compelling story of immigration and assimilation, not only to a new country but also into a different social class. Esperanza’s expectation that her 13th birthday will be celebrated with all the material pleasures and folk elements of her previous years is shattered when her father is murdered by bandits. His powerful stepbrothers then hold her mother as a social and economic hostage, wanting to force her remarriage to one of them, and go so far as to burn down the family home. Esperanza’s mother then decides to join the cook and gardener and their son as they move to the United States and work in California’s agricultural industry. They embark on a new way of life, away from the uncles, and Esperanza unwillingly enters a world where she is no longer a princess but a worker. Set against the multiethnic, labor-organizing era of the Depression, the story of Esperanza remaking herself is satisfyingly complete, including dire illness and a difficult romance.
