Penjing | 盆景

Approaches
We were inspired by the visual impact of Penjing, a traditional art form of China, and its connection to the natural world. Our approach was to create a space that respects the natural landscape and its inherent beauty. The Penjing garden is designed to be a pedestrian-friendly environment, encouraging visitors to explore and interact with the landscape.

Proposals
Penjing is a Chinese art form that involves creating miniatures of landscapes and natural environments within small containers. Our proposal is to create a Penjing garden within the larger context of the landscape, using the Penjing art form to enhance the natural beauty of the site. The Penjing garden will be a central feature of the landscape, surrounded by other plantings and hardscapes.

Perspective
The Penjing garden will be a place for contemplation and reflection, allowing visitors to connect with nature in a serene and peaceful environment. The Penjing garden will be designed to be a place for meditation and relaxation, providing a quiet space for visitors to escape the hustle and bustle of everyday life.

Drawing
Our drawings illustrate the Penjing garden, highlighting the intricate details and natural beauty of the Penjing art form. The drawings show the different elements of the Penjing garden, including the plants, rocks, and other features that make up the garden.

A woman looks through a sculptural opening to a Penjing garden.